TST Overland Express Named Carrier Of The Year

Mississauga, On, November 30, 2009 – TST Overland Express, one of Canada’s leading less-than-truckload companies, has been named “Carrier of the Year” by Schneider Logistics, Inc., a leading international logistics provider.

Schneider’s Carrier of the Year distinction is presented to third-party logistics carriers that are deemed to excel in operational performance, exceptional service and ease of conducting business.

“We work hard to maintain our industry leadership position in the ways that matter most to our customers. From our ISO 9002 certification, to leveraging new technologies and processes that enhance customer experience, TST is committed to continuous improvement,” said Rob O’Reilly, President, TST Overland Express. “To receive this recognition from another leader in our industry is very gratifying and to win this award 6 times over the last 7 years demonstrates TST’s commitment to excellence. I congratulate our employees for this recognition and thank them for their continued outstanding efforts.”

“Each year Schneider Logistics holds its Carrier Recognition Conference to thank and recognize those core providers who deliver the capacity and high-level service for which Schneider is known,” said Bill Miller, vice-president of supply chain management at Schneider Logistics. “Because these carriers are an extension of Schneider, we count on them to deliver each and every load safely, on-time and with great professionalism.”

Carriers recognized at this year’s conference represent the top 1% of service providers moving freight on behalf of Schneider Logistics’ customers, according to Schneider officials.

Schneider Logistics made the announcement at its seventh annual Carrier Recognition Conference that took place in Green Bay, Wisconsin. Representatives from more than 140 carriers attended this year’s event, with 19 transportation companies from across North America, two from Canada, earning the Carrier of the Year distinction.
